SEPTEMBER 2016

The intersection between man and crocodile is not an uncommon one here in Papua New Guinea. The Sepik River cradles both species of salt water and fresh water crocodiles. Meat is desired but not always available, so fishing is popular and draws men into waters teeming with these giant creatures. As a result, injuries do occur, some of which are life threatening.

(Continued On Page 2)

MEDICAL CONTAINER FROM USA ARRIVES IN PNG!

Samaritan Aviation, in partnership with Baylor Scott & White Health’s “Faith In Action Initiatives”, hospitals and volunteers in Arizona and Colorado, and the First Baptist Church of Geneva, Illinois are excited to announce the arrival of a 40’ container full of medical supplies. These supplies will benefit the Wewak Boram Hospital, and both Sub-Health Centers and Aid Posts in the East Sepik Province of Papua New Guinea.

Special thanks to Samaritan Aviation’s International Medical Director Dr. Dan Cranston and our C.O.O. Bryan Veager for their efforts to get the container to Wewak. Also, thanks to our Papua New Guinea Medical Director Chris Cooke and his family, who are working tirelessly to catalog and sort these supplies to ensure that they are given to the most needy Health Centers in the province.

Samaritan Aviation is also thankful for the partnership we have with Provincial Health, the Area Medical Store, the Boram Hospital, and Outreach International of PNG which will allow for the supplies to be given out quickly and efficiently.

Meet Our New Team Member!

All of us with Samaritan Aviation are excited that Natalie Waters will be joining our team in Papua New Guinea beginning in January of 2017! Natalie was raised in Europe while her parents were missionaries to the people of Spain and Italy. After several years on the mission field, her family transitioned to a pastorate in Northern California and later to a church in Northern Virginia. Early in life, she developed a deep passion for the unreached and a desire to share Christ’s Gospel with the least reached people of our world. While in high school, she and her family traveled to the jungles of Ecuador to deliver school supplies and Bibles through their family ministry. During that trip, God opened Natalie’s heart to the possibility of missionary aviation after flying with Mission Aviation Fellowship. In 2009, she began attending classes and started her flight training at Liberty University’s School of Aeronautics in Lynchburg, Virginia. She graduated in 2014 with a Bachelor of Science in Aeronautics and later earned her flight instructor certificate. While pursuing her degree, she became the Administrative Assistant at the School of Aeronautics and later became Executive Assistant to the Dean, the position she has served in since 2014. God is allowing her to use her passion for aviation, for administration, and most importantly, her passion to see the nations come to Him in a unique way at Samaritan. The invaluable experience she gained as an assistant at the School of Aeronautics prepared her to fill the role of Office Manager with Samaritan Aviation. She is looking forward to serving the Samaritan team in this capacity and is very excited to serve the people of Papua New Guinea in any way God leads!

A FAMILY SHOWS THEIR GRATITUDE

A NEW TEAM MEMBER INTRODUCED

MEDICAL CONTAINER FROM USA ARRIVES

WWW.SAMAVIATION.COM • PO BOX 492, MONTROSE, COLORADO 81402
YOUNG BOY SURVIVES CROCODILE ATTACK!

Continued from Front Cover

...The skies were clear on a Sunday when we received a call requesting a lifesaving transport for a crocodile attack on a young man.

Victor was one of two teens who had been fishing. While helping his friend retrieve a fish from the water, a crocodile clamped down upon Victor’s leg. The teen somehow managed to free himself from its grasp, but not without suffering damage to his leg and considerable blood loss. The young men secured a canoe trip back to their village of Murik Lakes, and eventually made contact with Pilot Mark Palm, who had been out on another flight. Once he had word of their exact location, Mark and Medical Director Chris Cooke began the 25 minute flight to attend to the serious injury. They assessed the trauma and then flew Victor to Boram Hospital where he was treated. Thankfully, Victor had no broken bones, but he stayed in the hospital for 2 weeks recovering from the substantial injuries and blood loss.

Rescue is not Samaritan Aviation’s only goal, and as we regularly do, we sought to minister to Victor and his family through provision, prayer and the sharing of Christ. In conversing with his mother, we learned her understanding of what had occurred. She believed that Victor, who had skipped a church service, was attacked for just that reason, but released when the crocodile viewed the crucifix around his neck. This is an example of how many view the spirit world here and clearly shows the need for discipleship among Believers, new and old.

It’s a privilege to serve the people of Papua New Guinea and share God’s mercy. We pray for Victor, for continued healing and for him to clearly see God’s love for him, through an understanding of the true gospel and the mission of Samaritan Aviation.

LITTLE ISAAC AND HIS FAMILY SHOW THEIR GRATITUDE

The moment a patient reaches the point in their recovery when it’s time for them to return home is often a bittersweet one. On the one hand we are obviously joyful for their healing and on the other, sad to know that once they return to their remote villages, we most likely will never see them again this side of heaven. One such bittersweet instance was when we said goodbye to 7-year old Isaac when he returned home to his village along the Karawari River. After falling out of a coconut tree and sustaining a severely fractured femur, Isaac was in the Boram Hospital for 6 weeks. During his stay, we visited regularly and I could tell that he eagerly awaited our afternoon Bible adventure stories. When after just six weeks Isaac was discharged from the hospital due to overcrowding, he and his father, Boni, stayed at a nearby settlement so that Isaac’s still-unhealed leg could continue to be seen by the doctor each week. Continuing to visit and bring food several times a week to Boni and Isaac over the next two months, we read more Bible stories, played games, and colored pictures. When the doctors cleared him to return to his village 14 weeks into his recovery, we watched as Isaac hobbled toward home on a crudely carved walking stick and wondered if he would ever walk unassisted again.

Imagine our surprise when Boni and Isaac travelled back into Wewak town just 2 months later! In a sincere show of gratitude, they presented our family with 4 beautiful parrots from their village. But the best part of all was when Isaac ran to Chris (yes, RAN!) and threw his arms around Chris’ legs. These are the moments, our moments and yours too. Thank you for praying and for giving. And Lord Jesus, thank You. For absolutely all of it, Lord, thank You.

FUEL FOR LIFE UPDATE!

Did you know your gift for Fuel for Life helped little Victor and Isaac get flown to the Boram Hospital to receive the emergency care that they needed? Thank you! $23,192 has been raised! Our goal is $70,000! You can also donate your vehicles, recreational vehicles or aircraft to Samaritan Aviation and receive a tax donation receipt for 2016!

contact@samaritanaviation.com or call 970-747-5571 for more details

FOLLOW US ON FACEBOOK & INSTAGRAM

Did you know your gift for Fuel for Life helped little Victor and Isaac get flown to the Boram Hospital to receive the emergency care that they needed? Thank you! $23,192 has been raised! Our goal is $70,000! You can also donate your vehicles, recreational vehicles or aircraft to Samaritan Aviation and receive a tax donation receipt for 2016!

contact@samaritanaviation.com or call 970-747-5571 for more details

FOLLOW US ON FACEBOOK & INSTAGRAM
Continued from Front Cover

...The skies were clear on a Sunday when we received a call requesting a lifesaving transport for a crocodile attack on a young man.

Victor was one of two teens who had been fishing. While helping his friend retrieve a fish from the water, a crocodile clamped down upon Victor’s leg. The teen somehow managed to free himself from its grasp, but not without suffering damage to his leg and considerable blood loss. The young men secured a canoe trip back to their village of Murik Lakes, and eventually made contact with Pilot Mark Palm, who had been out on another flight. Once he had word of their exact location, Mark and Medical Director Chris Cooke began the 25 minute flight to attend to the serious injury. They assessed the trauma and then flew Victor to Boram Hospital where he was treated. Thankfully, Victor had no broken bones, but he stayed in the hospital for 2 weeks recovering from the substantial injuries and blood loss.

Rescue is not Samaritan Aviation’s only goal, and as we regularly do, we sought to minister to Victor and his family through provision, prayer and the sharing of Christ. In conversing with his mother, we learned her understanding of what had occurred. She believed that Victor, who had skipped a church service, was attacked for just that reason, but released when the crocodile viewed the crucifix around his neck. This is an example of how many view the spirit world here and clearly shows the need for discipleship among Believers, new and old.

It’s a privilege to serve the people of Papua New Guinea and share God’s mercy. We pray for Victor, for continued healing and for him to clearly see God’s love for him, through an understanding of the true gospel and the mission of Samaritan Aviation.

The moment a patient reaches the point in their recovery when it’s time for them to return home is often a bittersweet one. On the one hand we are obviously joyful for their healing and on the other, sad to know that once they return to their remote villages, we most likely will never see them again this side of heaven. One such bittersweet instance was when we said good-bye to 7-year old Isaac when he returned home to his village along the Karawari River. After falling out of a coconut tree and sustaining a severely fractured femur, Isaac was in the Boram Hospital for 6 weeks. During his stay, we visited regularly and I could tell that he eagerly awaited our afternoon Bible adventure stories. When after just six weeks Isaac was discharged from the hospital due to overcrowding, he and his father, Boni, stayed at a nearby settlement so that Isaac's still-unhealed leg could continue to be seen by the doctor each week. Continuing to visit and bring food several times a week to Boni and Isaac over the next two months, we read more Bible stories, played games, and colored pictures. When the doctors cleared him to return to his village 14 weeks into his recovery, we watched as Isaac hobbled toward home on a crudely carved walking stick and wondered if he would ever walk unassisted again.

Imagine our surprise when Boni and Isaac travelled back into Wewak town just 2 months later! In a sincere show of gratitude, they presented our family with 4 beautiful parrots from their village. But the best part of all was when Isaac ran to Chris (yes, RAN!) and threw his arms around Chris’ legs. These are the moments, our moments and yours too. Thank you for praying and for giving. And Lord Jesus, thank You. For absolutely all of it, Lord, thank You.

Did you know your gift for Fuel for Life helped little Victor and Isaac get flown to the Boram Hospital to receive the emergency care that they needed? Thank you! $23,192 has been raised! Our goal is $70,000! You can also donate your vehicles, recreational vehicles or aircraft to Samaritan Aviation and receive a tax donation receipt for 2016! contact@samaritanaviation.com or call 970-747-5571 for more details

Young Boy Survives Crocodile Attack!

Little Isaac and His Family Show Their Gratitude

Fuel for Life Update!
Meet Our New Team Member!

All of us with Samaritan Aviation are excited that Natalie Waters will be joining our team in Papua New Guinea beginning in January of 2017! Natalie was raised in Europe while her parents were missionaries to the people of Spain and Italy. After several years on the mission field, her family transitioned to a pastorate in Northern California and later to a church in Northern Virginia. Early in life, she developed a deep passion for the unreached and a desire to share Christ’s Gospel with the least reached people of our world. While in high school, she and her family traveled to the jungles of Ecuador to deliver school supplies and Bibles through their family ministry. During that trip, God opened Natalie’s heart to the possibility of missionary aviation after flying with Mission Aviation Fellowship. In 2009, she began attending classes and started her flight training at Liberty University’s School of Aeronautics in Lynchburg, Virginia. She graduated in 2014 with a Bachelor of Science in Aeronautics and later earned her flight instructor certificate. While pursuing her degree, she became the Administrative Assistant at the School of Aeronautics and later became Executive Assistant to the Dean, the position she has served in since 2014. God is allowing her to use her passion for aviation, for administration, and most importantly, her passion to see the nations come to Him in a unique way at Samaritan. The invaluable experience she gained as an assistant at the School of Aeronautics prepared her to fill the role of Office Manager with Samaritan Aviation. She is looking forward to serving the Samaritan team in this capacity and is very excited to serve the people of Papua New Guinea in any way God leads!

MEDICAL CONTAINER FROM USA ARRIVES IN PNG!

Samaritan Aviation, in partnership with Baylor Scott & White Health’s “Faith in Action Initiatives”, hospitals and volunteers in Arizona and Colorado, and the First Baptist Church of Geneva, Illinois are excited to announce the arrival of a 40’ container full of medical supplies. These supplies will benefit the Wewak Boram Hospital, and both Sub-Health Centers and Aid Posts in the East Sepik Province of Papua New Guinea.

Special thanks to Samaritan Aviation’s International Medical Director Dr. Dan Cranston and our C.O.O. Bryan Yeager for their efforts to get the container to Wewak. Also, thanks to our Papua New Guinea Medical Director Chris Cooke and his family, who are working tirelessly to catalog and sort these supplies to ensure that they are given to the most needy Health Centers in the province.

Samaritan Aviation is also thankful for the partnership we have with Provincial Health, the Area Medical Store, the Boram Hospital, and Outreach International of PNG which will allow for the supplies to be given out quickly and efficiently.

WWW.SAMAVIATION.COM • PO BOX 492, MONTROSE, COLORADO 81402