Samaritan Aviation is committed to maximizing the efficiency of all mission-related activities, with aviation being one of our highest priorities. In order for Samaritan Aviation to conduct safe flight operations and also maximize the delivery of medical and disaster relief supplies, it is important for our organization to consider that ministry is maximized with increased payload. Therefore, flight crew weight is a factor in the candidate screening process, and also a consideration for our pilots on the field. Please note that these requirements are permitted by the Religion Clauses of the First Amendment.
